I've always had this desire to reach a big audience and give that audience my personal and authentic opinion.

In May 2017 I made my way to New York City to pursue blogging full time. I find so much joy in creating beautiful content for brands that I whole heartedly believe in. My current focus is on building a bigger audience and finding relationships within the brands I work with.

My niche is definitely braided hair styles and tutorials. I love fashion and changing my styles up. Being creative with my outfits and makeup is my favorite part of the day.

Let's get started!
